Dear Paul Tullis:

I am writing in response to your ad for writers on mediabistro.com.

My main area of expertise is writing about popular music, though many of the other topics in your ad interest me as well.

I have years of experience writing for alternative weeklies. I was the music editor, associate editor, production manager and popular music columnist (the last for eleven years) for Philadelphia's largest weekly, The Welcomat, which is now known as Philadelphia Weekly or as of last month PW. In addition I was a regular contributor to various regional entertainment papers.

More recently I was a regular contributor to Gadfly magazine and have written for several music websites such as bobbylan.com.

My knowledge of music goes from the earliest country and blues artists on up. For print and radio, I have interviewed several major and legendary musicians including James Brown, Muddy Waters, George Jones, John Lee Hooker, Howard Tate, Carl Perkins, Professor Longhair, Dr. John, Arlo Guthrie, The Band, and Lucinda Williams to name a few.
